WE NOMINATE

Wilbur Franklin Kerr, angular 67-year old native New Jerseyite, who this week entered upon 18 months of combined vacation and leave of absence from Princeton University and thereby started writing "finis" to an academic career unparalleled in the annals of this strikingly academic community. At the end of his leave, in June of 1948, Kerr will have completed an even half-century in the University's service and will have created a longevity record that will probably stand as long as the sons of Princeton swing their hats "in praise of Old Nassau."

Born in Columbus and a Princetonian since 1889, Kerr, because of circumstances beyond his control, completed three years of formal schooling, buried a burning desire to become a physician and went to work in 1895 as a University officeboy. From 1897 until 1900 he was absent from the campus, assisting his father in the Princeton branch office of the Adams Express Company. At the dawn of the century he returned to the cloistered side of Nassau Street and entered the Registrar's Office.

Serving under five heads of the University, starting with Francis Landey Patton and including Edward D. Duffield, acting president in 1932-33, Kerr's remarkable tour of duty has bracketed the most significant developments in Princeton history. He has helped Princeton grow, from a sleepy residential college of 1,150 students in 1900, into one of the nation's great liberal arts universities, sheltering a GI-dominated undergraduate enrollment of 3,465 in 1946. Woodrow Wilson's preceptorial method of instruction, the introduction of independent study for upperclassmen and the inevitable expansion of the curriculum in all fields of learning added to the complexity of his office's problems.

As absorbed as he has been with his university responsibilities, not taking an hour off in the past six years, Kerr has made time for municipal activities. Currently completing his 18th year as a member of the Borough Board of Education and a former elder of the Second Presbyterian Church, he has been president of Hook and Ladder and Chemical Engine Company Number One "longer than one should remember." Incidentally, he joined the Company some four decades ago "in order to catch on the ball team," an ambition that didn't interfere with his ascension to the post of Borough Fire Chief in 1925.

For wholeheartedly dedicating his life to the ideals that "his university" represents; for constantly and anonymously helping others gain the education that was denied to him; for his ability to radiate at retirement the convictions of his youth; he is TOWN TOPICS' candidate for

Robberies on Upswing. Half a dozen stores, as many more houses have been broken into in recent weeks. Articles in cars have been stolen, or the cars themselves have disappeared. Most of the latter are of the "ride-borrowing" variety: a Cadillac owned by Mrs. H. C. Sturhahn was taken from the driveway at "Avalon," found abandoned in Trenton next day.

This week, police reported that they had nabbed four juveniles who confessed to entering or attempting to enter six stores: DuPraz, Kreeley's, Castanea, Food Mart, Poultry Market and the Princeton Recreation Center. Total loot was nearly $300, half in cash, the rest in fountain pens, flashlights, small radios.

Ages of the quartet involved were 14 to 16, although one was an Annadale Reformatory parole violator. Ironically enough, the four were picked up because they became involved in a boyish squabble in the Garden Theatre, got thrown out into the hands of Patrolmen Chasko and Knowles.

From the C. W. McGraw home last weekend, $200 in jewelry vanished, including four miniature gold footballs and a silver cigarette case, the latter given Mr. McGraw for services as head of the war-time reserve police. Most serious theft to date: nearly $2,000 worth of silver from the S. L. Tattersalls on Library Place. Small comfort to irritated Princetonians and harassed police was the fact that the trend was nation-wide, far worse in many another community.

It's New to Us

The Women's turn is here, and we hope we can be of some help in solving the Christmas problem for them and their perplexed men. Last week we made an effort to unearth gifts for Men; next week the Children will have their innings.

The Center. At risk of sounding like an almanac listing the proper categories for wedding anniversary gifts, we will try to summarize the abundance here in the following fashion: Paper—washable place mats by famous artists from Grant Wood to Luigi Lucioni, adaptable, colorful, 75 cents each; F. A. coasters that tie in perfectly, $1.95 per set of 12. Straw—scrapbaskets, fruit or bread baskets, knitting or shopping bags are among all kinds of bright ideas executed tastefully in straw, from 25 cents up. Wood—lots of it, our favorites an hors d'oeuvre tray outfitted with toothpicks; salad bowls, large and individual; a nut dish, plus hammer and candlesticks with a rustic air, $2 and up. Metal—handpainted trays, scrapbaskets, flower and pot containers, all attractive, the latter especially so, from $1.75 up. Leather—nothing has been omitted along leather lines, which go from 'phone book covers, portrait albums, address and engagement books (refillable) to Time — Life — New Yorker — Readers Digest covers and everything for the card player and smoker. From 75 cents up. Porcelain and Glass—Adorable miniature porcelain boxes (uses are many—you can find your own); entrancingly feminine handpainted glass and milk glass dressing table bottles. 75 cents and up.

Elise Goupil. A lady who has specialized in rescuing males in a Christmas shopping quandary is ready and able to continue her assistance, particularly when it comes to lingerie. Bedjackets, Jaquard (for the uninitiated, that means a brocaded type of pure silk!) and reversible quilted rayon sheer; slip and nightgown ensembles, more Jacquard in blue, pink and white, also in rayon satin with real Alencon lace, very luscious; robes, brocade rayon, lovely pastels, lovely robes; handkerchiefs, domestic and imported, colors, pure whites.

Thorne's Drug Store. Swansdown powder puffs are back and in three sizes, and for the benefit of the gentlemen who are ignorant on such subjects, there is nothing like them; "TicTacToe" by Lelong, a small folding leather case with three different lipsticks, eyecatching and useful, only $1.50; "Tigress" by Faberge, an appropriately striped box with perfume and cologne in bottles with "genuine" tigerskin covers, heady frag-

Miscellany. A plate glass window blew out of the third floor of the First National Bank Building at 4:45 Monday morning during the height of the wind storm . . . at that hour of the day, with the temperature at 10 degrees, Nassau Street was fortunately empty.

"Clear the Track," the Triangle Club's 55th annual production, which opens here next weekend, has what might be termed a variety of settings . . . they range from an aquacade to a Third Avenue bar where the trustees are meeting.

Ernie Ransome, popular half back whose hip was dislocated in the Penn game, won the Poe Cup for 1946 play . . . Dick West, quarterback, will captain the 1947 team . . . the University will open its basketball season against Rider Wednesday night, the high school against B.M.I. next Friday.

Princeton Hospital is seeking to raise $41,000 to replace equipment that is "dangerously antiquated" . . . Methodist Church Men's Club will hold a dinner at the Princeton Inn on Tuesday in observance of the 100th Anniversary of the founding of the church.

Half a dozen units in Stanworth on Bayard Lane are now occupied, two dozen in the Harrison Street project for university veterans and their wives are now open . . . land for the 20 prefabricated houses assigned the town by the State is expected to be found within the next few days.

News of the Theatres

The Playhouse

Song of the South (Fri., Sat.) is the Disney-conceived version of Uncle Remus and his carefree tales. The film would have benefitted from more animation, less live photography, still is a treat for all.

Two Years Before the Mast (All Week), despite considerable liberties taken with the Richard Henry Dana original, is a first-rate tale of adventure on the high seas. Injecting impressment, mutiny and murder into the plot where the book had none, the film deviates from the truth but is always good entertainment. With William Bendix, Brian Donlevy, Alan Ladd.

The Garden

My Pal Trigger (Fri., Sat.) features that well-known steed and Roy Rogers in a biographical story about the horse. It's another satisfactory western.

Rebecca (Mon., Tues., Wed.) is a reissue of the famous Daphne du Maurier novel about the love of two people for each other and a sinister housekeeper who is capable of all manner of evil. With Laurence Olivier, Joan Fontaine, Judith Anderson. An excellent picture.

Young Widow (Thurs., Fri., Sat.) isn't a bad story despite all the trashy publicity given the film in other communities. Starring Jane Russell, it tells of a newspaperwoman whose husband is killed in the war and of her eventual ability to carry on without him.
